

irplus - a repository i use

irplus is an open-source institutional repository software application designed to support a wide range of user needs. This includes overall repository system management features as well as tools to support authoring, co-authoring and self-publishing.

Collaborative Authoring and Versioning

Users have a web based workspace where they can:

- Create Folders

- Add/Upload Files

- Manage files and folders

- Share and collaborate on files with other users

- Have their files backed-up on a regular basis

Publishing

Users can publish their files into to the system and have the following abilities:

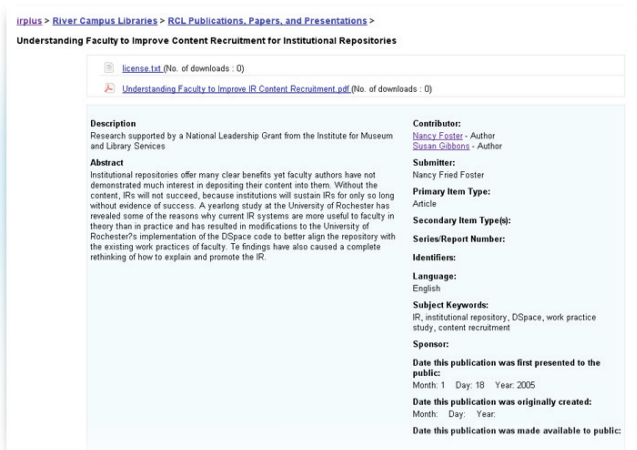

- Update or add new versions to their current publications

- Set the order of files

- Set the order of the authors/contributors

- Select the version of the file to be published

- Add general metadata information

Searching

Users can search the system for publications:

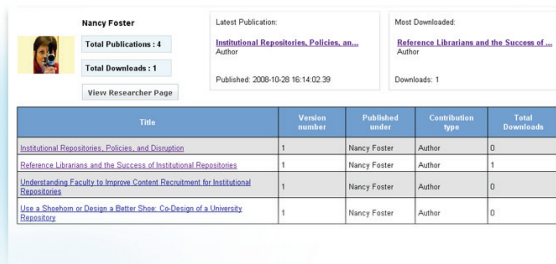

Full-text searching

Faceted searching and results narrowing

Researcher Pages

Authorized users can create research pages, which is a personal area to reference their work and contributions

Statistics

Including repository-wide statistics and per-contributor statistics:

Repository wide statistics include:

Total number of collections

Total number of publications

Total number of downloads

Contributor statistics include:

Last publication

Total number of publications

Total downloads for all publications

List of all publications for contributor