

Alumni Access to JSTOR @ Duke

CNI December 2012

Molly Tamarkin

Associate University Librarian for Information Technology

Storming....

- What are we doing again?
- Whose idea was this?
- Who's paying for it?
- Who “owns” this service?

Forming

- Duke Libraries will pay
- Duke Libraries will set up the “portal”
- Duke Libraries will partner with Alumni Office

Norming

- Don't they have a web developer?
 - They do now....
- How often do we have to update this page?
 - Need a workflow for this....
- When do we assess and adjust?
 - Coming soon....

Online Databases

The Duke University Libraries and the Duke University Alumni Association provide access to a set of online resources to all Duke alumni. To access these databases, register with the Duke Alumni Directory. Then click on "Research Resources." If you have questions about these resources, you may use the chat box to get real-time assistance from reference librarians.

The following selected online resources are available for Duke University alumni:

- ATLA Religion Database
- EBSCO Academic Search Alumni Edition
- JSTOR
- ProQuest ABI/Inform Complete
- RefWorks

These databases may be accessed off-campus by Duke alumni who are using them for personal use. Accessing these resources for commercial gain is not permitted.
